

We are distributing to-day Part I of the READER as promised. However, we had to rush so much to get it run off in time that we were not able to get all the corrections made before printing. With our apologies, here is a list of errors that you may want to correct in your copy of the READER, Part I.

In addition, there are a number of corrections that we are making that concern commas, accents, and felicitous wordings. We are also rewriting part of the Preface and the Bibliography. These changes will appear in future editions!!

In the meantime, we shall appreciate your letting us know about other errors that we may have missed.

READING ASSIGNMENT

In the READER, you should read particularly the section dealing with the definition of genocide and the typology.

In Kuper, you should read chapter 2 which deals with the UN Convention.
